

SUPPORT OF STATE WIDE WPA STRIKE IS NOW DWINDLING

Called by A. F. L. Bldg. Trades Union; Only 3 Projects Forced To Close

STRIKE IS INEFFECTIVE

Desperate Effort Is Made By Leaders to Redeem the Situation

By International News Service

Dwindling support for the statewide strike called by the American Federation of Labor Building Trades Union was apparent today as the state WPA reported today only two projects in Philadelphia and another in Wilkes-Barre were forced to close because of the walk-out.

A general ineffectiveness of the strike in its first eight hours was followed by a desperate effort by A. F. of L. leaders in Philadelphia to redeem the situation through calling a "sympathy" strike on all government finance projects.

A new strike thus far called only for Philadelphia, was slated to become effective at six p. m., tomorrow.

Meanwhile, throughout the state, the WPA announced that practically all projects were opened, and that no unusual activity was noted.

In the entire state, it was estimated that only about 2,000 men headed the strike call. In Philadelphia, approximately 800 men were reported on a strike, out of a total of 3,000 skilled workers. The Pittsburgh WPA office reported 501 men failed to report for work yesterday, the first day of the protest against new WPA hour regulations.

Of the number reported out in Pittsburgh, only 174 were skilled men and 327 were common laborers. The Pittsburgh WPA reported that 114 projects in the area were not hampered in any way by the strike.

The latest strike call in Philadelphia, if effective, will force stopping of work on numerous Federal projects, including a court house, slum clearance project, a municipal court building, a school, and a navy yard building. All these projects were reported 100% union labor.

NO GRAZING IN PARKS

DENVER—(INS)—There's a law in Denver which prohibits free grazing and wandering in municipal parks by cows. The law was dug out of the archives recently by Assistant City Attorney E. L. Fundingsland after mountain park police seized eight cows belonging to Andrew E. Anderson, a Bear Creek rancher. Police said the cows were "running wild."

Must Have Separation Notices From Employers

After July 15, all claimants for unemployment compensation benefits in Pennsylvania will be required to present a separation notice from their last employer, Secretary of Labor and Industry Lewis G. Hines announced today.

"In order to enforce provisions of the law regarding eligibility for benefits, it is essential to have an accurate check in every case on the reason for a claimant's unemployment," Secretary Hines explained. "The new procedure will provide a quick and simple method for such verification."

Standard separation notice forms have been prepared by the State job insurance agency, and forwarded to employers throughout the State. When a worker is separated from his job, this form must be filled out and handed to him by the employer. The worker then presents it at the time he files an original claim for out-of-work benefits at his local State Employment office.

In order to avoid working any hardship upon the jobless, a claimant who does not have his separation notice may be permitted to file his claim and to report during the three weeks' waiting period, but no claim for a compensable week may be signed and no benefit check issued until the separation notice has been received.

Employers have been notified that they must comply with this regulation, and workers should be sure they receive a separation notice when leaving their employment for any reason.

SURVEY ENDS HOPES OF JEWISH GUIANA REFUGE

Research Experts Reveal They Favor Small Experimental Settlements

By Russell F. Anderson (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 18—(INS)—Immediate hopes for Europe's "wandering Jews" to find haven in British Guiana glimmered today as research experts indicated they favored small experimental settlement rather than mass migration.

The proposals of the experts, which recommend that experimental settlement should be carried out with a view to ascertaining on what scale settlement is possible, is now being studied by a sub-committee pending the sending of a full report to the American Advisory Committee, appointed by President Roosevelt.

The appendices of the committee's report consist of detailed notes on the various aspects of the problem by individual members, British and American.

Sir Geoffrey Evans, economic botanist of Kew Gardens, London, and formerly principal of the Imperial College of Agriculture at Trinidad deals with the possibilities for agricultural settlement in the hinterland of Guiana.

Referring to the open Savannah country, Sir Geoffrey states that any attempt at ploughing on an extensive scale would be disastrous, for it would result in a "dust bowl," and most of the soil would blow away into Brazil or form sand hills.

The open Savannahs must, however, be recognized as a pastoral proposition, he pointed out, recommending that a small experimental station be established to tackle pasturage and stock problems.

The development of transportation routes was dealt with by Lieut.-Col. Richard U. Nicholas of the United States Corps of Engineers, who recommended that rivers in the areas to be colonized should be surveyed with a view to improvement and that highways should be constructed only as necessary extensions of the waterways.

Dr. Anthony Donovan of the United States Public Health Service reported that the large scale settlement by Europeans of the hinterlands is possible from the public health standpoint, but that serious health problems are involved, the solution of which depends on the provision of adequate funds and on the efficient application of the principles of tropical sanitation in the planning and execution of the entire project.

Why Husbands Grow Gray

(By "The Stroller")

There is a resident of Cedar street who wishes his wife would purchase her wash-day needs in Bristol.

And really, you can't blame him, when the fact is taken into consideration that said husband hauled a washboard 525 miles after a vacation jaunt.

The "wifey" visited a local store and looked at the wash-boards. "No, that isn't just what I want," she told the clerk. So while in a point in West Virginia, 525 miles from home, she thought she saw just what she had been searching for, purchased it, and "hubby" had to handle it with care during the long journey.

"And now that we have had a chance to compare them, it is the same style that she refused here. But women are like that," adds fond "hubby."

15 Priests in Sanctuary At Funeral of Mrs. Lynn

The Solemn Mass of Requiem at the funeral of Mrs. Catherine A. Lynn, yesterday morning in St. Mark's Church, was said by the Rev. Father Paul Baird, with the Rev. Fr. Albert Glass serving as deacon; and the Rev. Fr. William Lynn, nephew of the deceased, as sub-deacon. There were 12 other members of the priesthood in the sanctuary.

Members of the Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality and of the Catholic Daughters of America, with which groups Mrs. Lynn was affiliated, attended the mass, and also the viewing the evening previous at the Lynn home. Mrs. Lynn was the widow of Michael Lynn, and had lived in Bristol for over 50 years.

A number of visiting Sisters from the Order of the Immaculate Heart of Mary, and those from the Bristol convent, were also at the Mass; and many flowers were sent in memory of the deceased by relatives and friends.

REMOVE DETOUR BARRIERS FROM HIGHWAY NO. 202

Road Between Lahaska and New Hope Has Been Closed 320 Days

MOTORISTS JUBILANT

NEW HOPE, July 18—The detour barriers on Route 202 between Lahaska and this borough were removed on Saturday after 320 days. Thousands of motorists who travel this popular route, a "short cut" to New York are jubilant.

The new highway is two-lane concrete and makes Route 202 a solid concrete stretch between Buckingham and New Hope, where it connects with an all-concrete thruway to New York City and other points.

To estimate how much inconvenience has been caused by the long-period detour, would be impossible, but it is a cold fact that business places of the sections between Lahaska and New Hope have noticed a decline of thousands of dollars in their receipts during the period the road was closed.

The topic of much discussion during the winter months, in fact the basis of a miniature civil war at times, Route 202 is at last open, and although motorists, for the present, travel the new part at their own risk, everyone

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

Mr. McNutt Is No Boob

Washington, July 17.

NOW that there has been more than a week of speculation concerning the appointment as Federal Security Administrator of Mr. Paul McNutt, the white-crested, ebullient Indian who is our most open, ardent and eager aspirant for the 1940 Democratic Presidential nomination, it is interesting to note the conclusions to which the practical politicians have come.

WITH almost complete unanimity, they agree that there are but two logical deductions. One is that if Mr. Roosevelt succeeds in controlling the convention, which he probably will, and is not a candidate himself, he will nominate Mr. McNutt for the Presidency. The other is that if he nominates himself for the third time, Mr. McNutt will be his choice for the Vice-Presidency. Their convictions as to these things are not shaken by the testy press conference denials of the President—first, that there was any politics in the appointment; second, that politics had been even remotely mentioned between him and Mr. McNutt; third, that it was agreed between them that Mr. McNutt need not slack his campaign after delegates.

SUCH denials they regard as an essential, well-understood and entirely legitimate piece of Presidential mendacity. Cross-examined by reporters, they ask, what could he do but deny? Certainly, it is said, he cannot be expected to admit it. Under such circumstances, denials from high public officials are a recognized part of the game, a necessary protective gesture, which by no means imputes to the denying official untruthfulness in

Hit By Train; Survives

Pittsburgh, July 18—Robert Robb, 10, of McKees Rock, today considered himself the "luckiest boy in the world."

Late yesterday the boy was struck by a freight train, knocked unconscious between the rails and then had 125 cars pass over him.

His injuries consisted of a probable fracture, lacerations of the face and body. Otherwise he was perfectly alright, physicians said.

Britain Denies German Negotiations

London, July 18—An official denial that Great Britain was carrying on any mediation negotiations with Germany for full settlement of the Danzig dispute was issued today in the informal statement by the British Foreign Office.

The statement also said the British government was not aware that any efforts at mediation are being conducted by other governments. The Foreign Office declaration squelched reports that England virtually was paying the way for "another Munich" by preparing to appease Chancellor Hitler in the Danzig crisis.

Eight-Alarm Stockyard Blaze

Pittsburgh, July 18—An eight-alarm fire visible for miles, swept through the stockyards early today, leaving two-thirds of the yards in ruins.

Fanned by a strong breeze within a few minutes after the blaze was discovered, the flames had spread over an area ten blocks long and three blocks wide.

Every available fireman and policeman in the city was called to the scene. Six firemen were reported injured, two of them seriously.

19-oz Baby Shown at Fair

San Francisco, July 18—No larger than an adult's human hand, a 19-oz baby boy was among the incubator babies at the California World's Fair today.

Born two weeks premature, David, whose last name must remain unknown by request of his parents, will be one of the smallest babies in the world if he can be saved.

Indicted for Mother's Murder

Mt. Holly, N. J., July 18—Charles W. Quigley, who confessed setting the fire that burned his mother to death 14 years ago, today was under a Burlington County Grand Jury indictment for first degree murder.

Quigley waived extradition from Idaho, where he said his conscience prompted him to reveal his part in his mother's death. Although he pleaded not guilty to formal murder charges, the man told Idaho authorities he set fire to his mother's house in Pleasant Valley, hoping to set a death trap for William McIntosh, a boarder, against whom he had a grudge.

Meeting House Built 1709, Has Its First Union Service

For the first time since it was erected 230 years ago, the Friends Meeting House, Wood and Market streets, was the scene of a union religious service on Sunday evening.

Two hundred assembled for the service, which group was addressed by the following speakers: Dr. Walter H. Mohr, Ph. D., of George School; Miss Florence Cooper, Frankford Meeting; the Rev. Howard L. Zepp, of First Baptist Church; the Rev. J. Carpenter Zook, of Bristol Methodist Church; A. Russell Burton.

Several of the denominations of Bristol borough were represented. Newly wired for electricity, this was the initial time the electric lights were used for an evening service; and in the memory of some members of the Meeting, it is the first time an evening meeting has been held there in 50 years or more.

Four Injured in Crash Are Slightly Improved

The four who were injured in crash of two motor vehicles at Tullytown, Sunday, in which accident one woman was fatally hurt, are reported as slightly improved, at Harriman Hospital, this morning.

William Gilmore, Edgely, sustained chest wounds and suffered from general shock. He is somewhat better today, as is also his little daughter, Eleanor, aged four years. The little girl has a fracture of the left leg, below the knee, it was learned at the hospital yesterday. She also had numerous contusions of the face and body, and suffered from shock, but is now improving.

Mr. Gilmore's wife, Eleanor, 33, died as result of the accident. Marie Wolfinger, 14, of Edgely, a neighbor girl who was riding with the Gilmores, when their sedan became involved Saturday evening in a crash with a truck operated by Harry L. Moon, Tullytown, is doing nicely. She had contusions of the forehead and knee.

Mr. Moon, 63, sustained fractures of the ribs, laceration of the head, and fracture of the left wrist; but improvement is also noted in his condition.

Mrs. Gilmore, who died about 16 hours after the crash was driver of the car in which four were riding. It was stated by investigating officers that a fire blew out on the Moon truck, the vehicle shooting across the highway and striking the side of the Gilmore car.

HOSPITAL AUXILIARY TO CONDUCT A LAWN FETE

16th Annual Affair To Be Held Some Time Next Month

DATE TO BE ANNOUNCED

The Harriman Hospital Auxiliary announces that the 16th annual lawn fete will be conducted in August, upon a date yet to be decided.

The announcement reads: In former years it has been our custom to incorporate a short history of the hospital but it is felt now the work is so well understood that it will be unnecessary excepting to assure our patrons we are proud to state we are beginning our 18th year in hospitalization locally. The Harriman Hospital, however, was built in 1918 as a unit in the project of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

Those interested in hospital management fully understand and agree that a subsidy of some type is absolutely mandatory if we are to consider the problems of the indigent poor. They must and will receive appropriate attention. Enthusiasts in civic progress have been informed of the Federal and State efforts and likewise the promotion of Social Security and now our own State Legislature has granted restricted privileges which will cover not only hospital but medical insurance for the low-income group, but even if that Utopian program should succeed there will remain a large percentage unprotected. With that purpose in mind we have annually requested donations which in addition to the proceeds of the lawn fete help to sustain us in our hospital activities.

The improvements in the hospital and its environs need not be mentioned to you because you are in a position to observe from year to year the additions to the hospital building, grounds and equipment.

We would appreciate any contribution you may send either to Wm. H. H. Fine, Assistant Cashier, Farmers National Bank, Bristol, or Mrs. Wm. E. DeGroot, Sr., Jefferson avenue, Bristol, Pa. A list of the contributors will be published in the Bristol Courier.

Very truly yours,
MRS. WM. E. DEGROOT,
President Pro Tem.

FLAMES DESTROY LASKA BARN ON LUDASCHER FARM

Fire Believed To Have Been of Incendiary Origin Causes Loss of $8,000

3 COMPANIES AT SCENE

Firemen From Cornwells and Croydon Fight Flames For Three Hours

Fire believed to be of incendiary origin this morning totally destroyed the huge barn and contents on the property of Frank Laska, State Road, Bensalem Township. The farm was formerly known as the Ludascher farm. The loss is placed at $8,000.

The barn was stone stable high and was one of the large barns to be found in Bensalem Township. It had recently been repaired. In the barn were 13 tons of straw belonging to the Holy Ghost Apostolic College. There were also some clothing, a bicycle and other smaller articles belonging to the Laska family.

Mrs. Laska and her two daughters arrived at the farm while the barn was in flames and were completely unnerved to find their recently purchased property was being destroyed.

"I'm not superstitious," said Mrs. Laska, "but on Sunday we ate out here under the trees and after I had finished washing the dishes I emptied the water into those weeds. Then I missed my wedding ring which had not been off my finger for 21 years."

Mrs. Laska and her daughter returned to the farm this morning to search for the missing ring and found the huge barn aflame.

It was insured. The barn was about 50x50 feet and it was burned down to the stone foundations. The grass in the fields for quite a distance around was burned and firemen directed their attention to preventing the spreading of the flames to nearby buildings and a gasoline storage tank nearby.

Firemen were summoned by "Andy" Eismann who discovered the blaze at about 5:30 o'clock. Cornwells No. 1, Union Company of Cornwells and Croydon all responded.

The Second Alarmers Association of Philadelphia sent a coffee truck to the scene and served the firemen with cold and hot drinks.

The property was recently purchased by Lasky who had started work of rehabilitating the buildings. An attractive stone house had about been completed.

Mozart Conservatory Opens School Here

The Mozart Conservatory of Music, which maintains schools in Philadelphia, one in Norristown, Chester and Willow Grove, has opened a school at 129 Mill street.

The Conservatory is one of the largest of its kind, teaching all instruments, in this section of the country, at the present time maintaining about 2,000 students. The faculty of this Conservatory will be available to the students taking music in this section, so that all students will be able to have the opportunity to study music locally.

The Mozart Conservatory has arranged to supply all instruments with lessons.

Bible School Opens In Calvary Baptist Church

An interesting and instructive Daily Vacation Bible School, under direction of the Bethanna (Southampton) Bible Conference, started this morning in Calvary Baptist Church, Wood and Walnut streets. Actually the school opened yesterday morning with informal opening exercises, accompanied by the singing of Gospel choruses. The first day's activities were featured by a brief discourse by two missionaries to South America—Mrs. Jackson and Miss Marjorie Clark.

Miss Swigart, who conducts the Bethanna Bible Conference, has charge of the school, and in addition to being the accompanist at the piano, she gives an object lesson each day. Other teachers include John Landis for the young men's class; Miss Ruth Martin for the primary section; Miss Florence Kerr for older girls, and Miss Marjorie Clark for younger girls. "Bill" Pass will lead the singing of Gospel choruses. Several of the teachers are now studying in preparation for the mission field.

Classes will be held for boys and girls of all ages, and will include the making of Bible plaques and mottoes as well as scripture memory work and Bible teaching. There will also be prizes awarded for the best work in the various departments of the classes.

From time to time Miss Swigart plans to bring different missionaries to speak at the Bible School. The school will be in session from 9 to 11 a. m., every day this week, then after an intervening week, it will again be conducted during the week of August 7th to 12th inclusive. Following the close of the school those attending will enjoy an all day outing at Bethanna.

LOUISIANA'S NEW LONG

The name of Long still is to be conjured with in Louisiana politics, although almost four years have passed since an assassin's bullet ended the amazing and turbulent career of the governor and senator who became a state dictator. When Huey Long died, there was no one to step into his shoes as dictator. But so tight was the Long political machine's grip on Louisiana that the state since has been ruled by a group of his political lieutenants.

Now one of Huey Long's principal political heirs, Richard W. Leche, has resigned the governorship giving ill health as his reason. It may be a mere coincidence that Governor Leche's resignation followed the state WPA administrator's announcement that he had asked Washington for a sweeping investigation of "all charges involving the WPA" in Louisiana. If such an enquiry were conducted along the lines of previous Roosevelt Administration investigations, WPA simply would investigate WPA and find that WPA was wholly without fault.

Interesting, however, is the identity of Governor Leche's successor—Earl K. Long, brother of the redoubtable Huey. Earl Long and his famous brother had a bitter quarrel in 1931, and Earl ran for lieutenant governor on an anti-Huey ticket. He was defeated; and, in 1933, tried to get even by making sensational charges against Huey in a United States Senate investigation. Earl Long has asserted that he and his older brother were reconciled before the latter's death. Huey Long's political heirs apparently took Earl's word for it; and he was elected lieutenant governor three years ago—with a reputed promise of the governorship in 1940.

Now Earl Long gets the governorship a year ahead of this purported schedule. What will he do with his new power? Baton Rouge dispatches quote Louisiana politicians as describing Earl Long as "less able and crafty than Huey, but fully as vindictive and resourceful in fighting his opponents." Louisiana may not be in for a new Long dictatorship; but apparently it is for some rough-and-tumble political fighting.

What is of outstanding importance in this situation is what will become of the demand for an investigation of a series of alleged abuses of WPA activities for the private benefit of members of Louisiana's governing clique. Leche's retirement invites speculation as to whether these latest developments are part of a plan to kill off that enquiry.

A high German source confirms the story that thousands of Nazis are entering into Danzig, but London souls at it. Fortunately for Hitler, nobody believes a word a Nazi says.

One Hollywood husband went to Reno and filed suit so that his wife could summer in Europe. Such tender consideration during divorce will in time make marriage almost beautiful.

Still, the world isn't as silly as it could be. Governments don't send notes of protest to bandits and racketeers.

Persuasion is slower than force but it has one advantage. It doesn't lead to the secret whetting of knives.

The ordinary sense of the word. Nevertheless, considering the openness of Mr. McNutt's candidacy, the money already spent in promoting him and his complete control of the delegate-selecting organization in his State—considering these things, along with the McNutt statement that he will not run if the President does, only the simple minded will believe that Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. McNutt spent two hours alone, as they did, without touching on politics generally and their own political positions particularly.

IT is really ridiculous to so contend. Certainly Mr. McNutt would have to be a boob, indeed, to have sat for two hours with the President, and accepted from him so important a post, without obtaining some sort of clarifying statement and some sort of reassurance from Mr. Roosevelt on the subject uppermost in the minds of both—to wit, the 1919 Presidential situation. Mr. McNutt may be a great many things, but he is not a political boob. To have done that he would have to be a complete one. To ask people to believe that he did not hear some exceedingly satisfactory remarks on the matter of his own avowed ambitions before permitting himself to be taken wholly into the New Deal camp is asking a lot too much.

OF course he did. And it is just as certain that in his turn he made comments of a political nature equally gratifying to the party of the second part at that two-hour conference. As things stand, Mr. McNutt has been signally honored by the President with one of the half dozen most important posts in the Administration—a position which practically makes him a member of the Cabinet and presents an extraordinary opportunity to enhance his reputation, extend his influence and promote his candidacy—an opportunity which he could not have gotten in any other way. It was a notable mark of Presidential confidence which brands him as a "forward looking man" and a "true liberal," thoroughly acceptable to Mr. Roosevelt, personally and politically.

IT is impossible to avoid that interpretation. What he has been given amounts to a White House blessing. Mr. McNutt, who correctly, reasons that he cannot be nominated for either place on the ticket without Roosevelt support, can be counted upon to make the most of his new opportunities. There is just one factor that may prevent things working out as smoothly in the convention for Mr. McNutt as his delighted friends anticipate, and that is the extent to which Mr. James A. Farley has been made a party to the arrangement. If Mr. Farley has gotten over his distastes for Mr. McNutt and acquiesces in the McNutt idea, then there will be no trouble at all. But if Mr. Farley, realizing, as he must, what the McNutt nomination for either place does to him, balks—then there would be trouble, indeed. Then it could not be done. Because Mr. Farley, so far as delegate control is concerned, will be the key man in that convention—and Mr. Farley knows it very well.

What Do You Know About Health?

By FISHER BROWN and NAT FALK

WHO WAS JOHANNES FIBIGER?

Answers: 1. A mineral spring discovered about 1618 at Epsom, England. For about ten years the water was used as an external remedy for ulcers, but then acquired considerable reputation as a medicinal water for internal use. By the evaporation of this water we have Epsom Salts.
2. He was a Danish physician who, in 1927, was awarded the Nobel prize in medicine for his work on cancer. He found a way of producing cancer artificially in mice. This work greatly advanced the opportunity of investigators to study cancer and may be the fundamental work that eventually will yield a solution to this medical problem.
3. Nero is said to have consumed nothing but milk for a period of six months as a cure for an illness.

Behind the Scenes in HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

Copyright, 1939
King Features Syndicate, Inc.

HOLLYWOOD—LIGHTS! CAMERA! ACTION! Sentiment is thick in the air on the "Hollywood Cavalcade" set this week as the movies look fondly into their past.

It is 1926 and a gay party is going on in the Cocoanut Grove. Prohibition is still here. Bottles are hidden under tables.

This is a happy night for heroine Alice Faye, an anniversary of her marriage to Alan Curtis, who appears in the film as a sort of cross between Wallace Reid and Rudolph Valentino.

The guests at the long table are singing "Happy anniversary to you," unaware of the fact that, a few tables away, sits Don Ameche, the down-and-out director who built the heroine to stardom and realized too late that he loved her.

The song ends. A gray-haired man, in dinner clothes, rises and commences to speak. It is a tribute to Alice Faye.

Even the workers behind the camera lean forward to listen to this speech, for the man delivering it is a real celebrity from Hollywood's past—Mack Sennett, once comedy king of the screen.

When the speech is over and Director Irving Cummings calls out, there is a burst of applause. Sennett is fussed but pleased.

"You know," he says, "this is the first time I've had on makeup for more than 20 years. When Zanuck asked me to appear in the picture, I told him I couldn't—that it had been too long since I was an actor."

"It was his answer that sold me," Mack, he said, "we've had actors out here whose performances we have liked so well that we have taken scenes over 25 times."

Sennett laughs—it's really almost a giggle.

"Well, anyway," he says, "I guess I wasn't that bad."

John Ford, director of "Stage Coach" and "Young Mr. Lincoln," slouched in his canvas chair watching Claudette Colbert and Henry Fonda play a pair of honeymooners in "Drums Along the Mohawk."

The two are having dinner in an inn and the host is embarrassing them with questions.

and return the bottle to the landlord. But Fonda is concentrating too much on the dialogue. He keeps the bottle and hands the glass of gin to Spencer Charters, who plays the inn-keeper.

The mistake confuses Fonda. He smiles and then he breaks out laughing.

"Why didn't you go on with it, Henry," demands Ford reproachfully.

Ford suddenly realizes that Fonda's mistake is exactly what a nervous honeymooner might do. The scene is even better this way than originally planned.

In the movies, many a deft touch comes about accidentally.

So it was, Ford explains later, with one of the biggest laughs in "Young Mr. Lincoln." The scene in the courtroom where Lincoln was cross-examining Ward Bond, who played a witness named J. Palmer Cass. The character's first name was Jack.

It was Donald Meek who suddenly came up with a gag . . . to have Lincoln say: "I shall call you Jack-ass."

They went back and did the whole scene over again to get the line in . . . and audiences howled.

Over at Selznick's Director Gregory Ratoff has the "Intermezzo" cast wondering what is happening to them.

He is 12 days ahead of schedule, a thing unheard of in this studio, where leisurely production methods are the rule.

This week they are doing a scene where Leslie Howard, a famous violinist who has run away from his wife and family, is explaining to John Halliday, a friend, how happy he is.

"Cut off from the world!" he exclaims, "it's the kind of a life I never thought I'd have. Such peace!"

"Cut," says Ratoff, "Leslie, you should say it with more enthusiasm . . . like you really meant it."

ON THE SCREENS

RITZ THEATRE

When Col. Tim McCoy went vacationing to Yosemite Park after the completion of his latest picture, Monogram's "Phantom Ranger," now at the Ritz Theatre, he received a pleasant surprise that carried him back to his early days in the movies.

The Indian troupe that was putting on the night show there included Chief Frying Pan and ten members of his tribe.

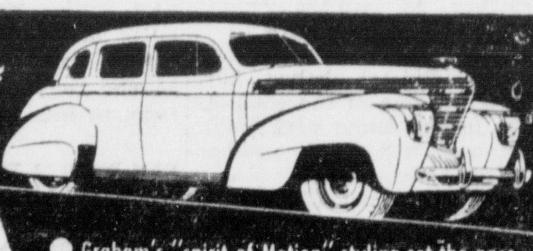

These were the very Indians who were responsible for Col. McCoy's being in pictures. "Within the Law" is another Ritz feature.

GRAND THEATRE

"Juarez," the Paul Muni-Bette Davis picture which has been playing to capacity audiences at each showing will be held at the Grand Theatre for a second day the management announced today. A powerful and moving film, it unfolds the turbulent pages of Mexico's history during the time it was under the brutal yoke of foreign dictatorship, and tells the inspiring story of the nation's struggle for democracy under the leadership of their president, Benito Juarez. DONOFRIO GAINS CLOSE VERDICT OVER MICKEY FINN IN BATTLE AT ST. ANN'S ARENA LAST NIGHT

BOXING—ST. ANN'S ARENA

Result of last night's boxing at St. Ann's arena, Philadelphia, was a close decision over Mickey Finn, Tullytown, in eight rounds. Tony Sarullo, Philadelphia, stopped Ricardo Toma, New York, in the second session. Joe Amico, Philadelphia, scored a technical knockout over Lenny Dever, Bristol, in the fourth. Henry Blackwell, Philadelphia, defeated Joe Rivers, Newark, in four rounds. John Turco, Trenton, stopped Willie Wright, Philadelphia, in the second. John Masclano, Philadelphia, was kayoed by Benny O'Neill, Trenton, in the first.

By T. M. Juno

Frank Donofrio, Philadelphia, gained a close verdict over Mickey Finn, colored Tullytown battler, last night in the windup of the boxing show held in the St. Ann's A. A. arena, Wood and Franklin streets.

So close was the decision that it was really the last round which helped to decide the fight. Finn had this session but landed several low blows, that caused the round to be taken away from him to have score card read: Donofrio, four rounds; Finn, three; and one even.

The colored boy appeared to be slow in getting started last night and allowed the Philadelphian to pile up an early lead. Both boys did a lot of wrestling and several times the fighters fell to the floor. Finn loved to hang on and hit while Donofrio wanted to fight at long range.

The first round was fought on even terms, Finn getting in several overhand rights and Frank connecting with hard rights to the side. The second and third cantos went to Donofrio, more because of his aggressiveness. In the second, Finn's knees wobbled when Donofrio landed with a solid right to the heart. Finn did not do much in the third except land a few of his whirlwind punches while in a clinch. Donofrio did most of the hard hitting.

At the beginning of the fourth, Frank's right found its mark on Finn's chin and this seemed to wake the colored lad for he pounded into Donofrio with rights and lefts and before the session was over had cut Donofrio's eye. It was the same in the fifth with Finn doing most of the leading and connecting to Donofrio's body. Finn staggered the Philadelphian boy in this round with a hard right to the jaw. He also got in several rights to Frank's kidneys.

Donofrio came back to carry the sixth. He blocked several of Finn's sweeping right hand punches and was successful in his punches to the head. Before the round was finished, Donofrio cornered Finn and pinned him against the ropes with a hard right hand smash. Finn looked in bad shape but held on to weather the storm.

Finn came back strong in the seventh and won the session. He connected with his right often but missed two haymakers. Donofrio pushed Finn to the floor but the Tullytown boy came right back to land rights and lefts to the mid-section. At the beginning of the eighth, Finn landed three times in the body without a return but Frank waited for an opening and straightened Mickey up with a right. It was then that the colored boy rushed Donofrio and landed two blows, both of which were below the belt and caused the round to be taken from him. Finn weighed 165; Donofrio, 172.

The semi-windup between Tony Sarullo, 130, Philadelphia, and Ricardo Toma, New York, failed to live up to expectations. Toma had no defense at all for Sarullo and did nothing except cover up from the first round on. In the second when the New Yorker was groggy from the beating he was getting, the referee stopped the bout and gave it to Sarullo after two minutes and ten seconds.

Lenny Dever, 124, Bristol, failed to answer the bell for the fourth round in his fight with Joe Amico, 134, Philadelphia, the latter winning on a T. K. O. Dever was no match for the ten-pound heavier Amico who carried the first three rounds easily, although the Bristolian was a willing slugger.

Henry Blackwell, 138, colored Philadelphian, easily pounded his way to a four round decision over Joe Rivers, Newark, 138. Rivers lost every round to Blackwell who appeared too clever for the Jersey youngster. Rivers was on the defense most of the fight and was one of these boys who would rush in swinging, only to be met with straight rights and lefts.

The fight between Willie Wright, Philadelphia, and John Turco, Trenton, began as if it would steal the show. Wright a lanky colored youth started by keeping Turco away with his rangy left and occasionally getting in a hard right. Turco was missing at the start, but when the round was half over, he landed flush on Wright's jaw and down went the colored boy. He arose at the count of seven, only to be socked down again. He took the count of nine this time. At the bell, Turco again hit him and flattened him out. Wright's seconds worked on him and got him in shape to begin the second but another right and Wright was out for the count. It took but thirty seconds to land the finishing blow. Wright's weight was 165; Turco, 172.

Benny O'Neill, Trenton, 147, scored a knockout over John Masclano, 139, Philadelphia, in the first fight of the night. The Trenton boy did the damage with a left to the body followed with a hard right to the jaw.

USE COTTON BAGGING

SARDIS, Miss.—(INS)—As a means of utilizing the staple surpluses, 18 of the 25 ginners in Panola County have agreed to use cotton bagging for wrapping the 1939 cotton crop. B. B. Young, President of the Mississippi Cotton Ginners' Association, announced. The remainder of the ginners will be asked to co-operate, Young said.

GRUNDY NINE DROPS INTO TWILIGHT CELLAR

The Grundy nine dropped into the cellar of the Bristol Twilight League, being blanked by Odd Fellows, 4-0, last evening on Landreth's field. It was the fourth straight loss for the wooden workers.

The veteran twirler of the local circuit, Milt Jones handed the Grundyites the coat of whitewash and in doing it he allowed but three safe hits. Jones retired the first eleven batters in consecutive order. The three hits were a single by Snyder; double by Thrige; and triple by Stallone.

Four disastrous errors changed the tide of the battle for Mel Wright who threw them in for Grundy's. The winners had but one earned run and that was the result of a single by Punkie Zeffleres and a two-bagger by Jock McCue in the sixth.

Jones was beamed by Wright in the sixth but after first aid treatment resumed his pitching in the following inning.

5TH WARD CLUB WIDENS LEAGUE LEAD MARGIN

By winning its eighth straight contest the Fifth Ward Sporting Club softball team widened its margin on first place in the Community League to a full game. Superior Zinc was the losing club last evening with the final count being 12-6.

Mancini was the winning hurler for the Warders but he had to receive help from the Warders' ace moundsman, Quindio. Quindio went to the mound in the sixth and held the zinc workers scoreless after they had shaved the lead to 7-6 the previous frame.

Five runs in the Warders' half of the sixth gave them the triumph. Jones pitched good ball for the losers until he weakened in the latter part of the tilt. He was nicked for thirteen hits with D'Angelo leading the attack with three out of three. Chonia had three out of the same number of times at bat for Superior.

DIAMOND IX SENDS TWO PITCHERS TO SHOWERS

BRISTOL TWILIGHT LEAGUE
Schedule for Tonight
HALL ALUMINUM at GRUNDY'S
(Grundy's field)
Umpire, Kervick; Scorer, Tomlinson

Sending Eddie Sullivan and Paul Cervello to the showers in the third frame, the Diamond nine increased its lead in the Bristol Twilight League by trouncing the Rohm and Haas aggregation, 12-7, last evening on the Cornwells field.

Seven bingles, two errors, and a fielder's choice, marked up a total of eleven runs for the Diamanti boys in that disastrous third and all this happened after the chemical workers had taken a 7-0 lead in the second.

With the seven hits were triples by Williams, Purcell and Helveston. Purcell smacked out his three-bagger with the sacks loaded. In the following inning, Mike DeRisi lined a home run into left field.

"Vic" Rockhill was the big gun with the stick for the losers. In the first with the sacks unoccupied he socked a four-bagger to left center and on his other two trips to the plate he had a triple and double.

Helveston was the winning twirler while the defeat was charged to Sullivan. Helveston settled down after the Maple Beach team counted five tallies in the second and allowed two hits the remainder of the tilt.

IN HIGH GEAR - By Jack Sords

FIGHT NOTES

By T. M. Juno

Among the spectators at the bouts, looking over the work of the officials, was Russell Allen, secretary to the Pennsylvania State Boxing Commission.

Several new men were being "broke in" by the Commission. Charles Alta, Charles Liebra and John Rich officiated in all the bouts. Sammy Moffo refereed two bouts and "Bill" Spezzano tried his hand at announcing.

"Zinkie" Zinkoff, Philadelphia sports announcer, was the official announcer, with Spezzano and another Philadelphian being "broke in," Joe O'Brien alternating.

The new men all did their work well. The local judges, Alta and Liebra, were on the spot in the windup decision but according to all concerned, it was rendered well.

Roy David, who acted as deputy state inspector, had his hands full during the evening. One boxer, Lou Angelo, Trenton, was overweight and a substitute was inserted. David also had a job trying to chase the group of rooters who went to cheer for Turco, Newark boy, in between rounds of his fight with Willie Wright.

Tony Puccio, Bristol baker boy, was announced as one of the contestants to fight in the bouts next week. "Hokey" Leighton will also be carded. The windup will see Young Terry, Trenton Buzzsaw, against Tiger Reed, New York.

The last round of the windup was taken away from Mickey Finn because of a low blow landed. Both boys did plenty of mauling, pushing and wrestling during the eight rounds. Finn went through the ropes three times and once landed on the lap of Charlie Alta. Donofrio fell through in the first. Loose ropes accounted for several of the falls.

Joe Shannon, who refereed the last four bouts, is an old time fighter although he did most of his ring-work on the Pacific Coast. He fought during the years of 1918 to 1926 and fought some of the leading top-notchers in the game. He twice whipped Alex Hart in Baltimore. Hart at that time was the only fighter to hold a decision over Benny Leonard. Shannon is vice-president of the Veteran Boxers Association, Philadelphia.

I had the occasion to meet Freddie Miller, another old-time ring warrior, last night. Miller, several times fought before the crowned heads of Europe. He beat Jimmie McBride, champion of the Bristol Navy, in England, and then kayoed him before the Sultan of Turkey at Constantinople. Miller is the steward of the Veteran Boxers Association.

Joe Duca, Paulsboro fighter, who lost a close decision to Young Terry two weeks ago, wants a return bout and is willing to fight winner-take-all. Duca cannot see how the verdict was turned in against him. I learned last night that the decision was a split one and also that Duca's bad eye was the result of a butt and not a punch as was first claimed.

ROUTED BY BEES

EAST LIVERPOOL, O.—(INS)—The buzzing of bees doesn't bring thoughts of honey to employees of the Railway Express office at East Liverpool. When a colony box of the insects, which was in the office for shipment, broke, the employees did their best to outdistance the bees in their flight.

Remove Detour Barriers From Highway No. 202

is willing to take a chance rather than make the very unhandy and considerably dangerous detour to the River road over Route 657.

Tourist houses along the new stretch brushed off the cobwebs this morning when owners heard that the new section would be open to travel today noon. Some owners had the painful experience of renting as few as one room a month during the detour period.

There are no guard rails along the new route as yet, and speed limit must necessarily be slow for the present. In places along the new route, the shoulders are not yet complete, but all told, the new job is very much worthwhile.

One detour barrier was located at the intersection of Routes 202 and 657 while the other was located at the New Hope Borough line.

What route the new extension from Lahaska to Doylestown or this community, will take, could not be learned this morning. One thing certain according to State Highway Department officials is that persons living along the proposed new route will not be antagonized like they were late last year when the old highway department "set-up" threatened to tear down valuable buildings and go where they pleased, until a hostile countryside rose up in arms against the method proposed.

AT THE CAPITOL

By International News Service
HARRISBURG, July 18.—Gov. Arthur H. James, moving to gain full control of as many state governmental departments as possible, will probably soon supplant Col. A. S. Janeway as Executive Director of the General State Authority. . . . According to political rumor, James Lyle Stuart, secretary of highways during the Fisher administration (1927-31) has been offered the $12,000-a-year post.

Stuart, 66, and a native of St. Louis, is a civil engineer by profession. He conferred with Governor James last week and it was understood the job was offered him if he desired it. . . . Secretary of Property and Supplies Roger W. Rowland, it was said, turned down the job and Stuart was his recommendation to Governor James for the post.

The Stuart rumor strengthened the indications that the chief executive plans as rapid a turnover as possible among Democrats still holding to major offices in the State government.

During the past week Governor

James made appointments to three major posts—the Public Utility Commission, the Unemployment Compensation Board of Review, and the State Labor Relations Board, all choice and important positions. . . . In addition numerous referees to the Workmen's Compensation board were named. . . . The referees posts pay $5,000 annually.

Ralph W. Thorne, Williamsport manufacturer and Lycoming County Republican chairman, got the $10,000 PUC post for a ten year term, while P. Stephen Stahlnecker, former Public Service Commissioner and campaign manager for former Gov. Gifford Pinchot, was named to the $8,500 unemployment compensation board job. . . . William L. Dickel, Delaware County, was named to the labor board at $7,000. . . . He was formerly recorder of deeds in Delaware County. . . . Stahlnecker will probably be named chairman of the compensation board.

Another question for speculation on Capitol Hill was the administration's apparently indifferent attitude to the Superior Court candidacy of Ellwood C. Turner, Delaware County, speaker of the House. . . . The Governor apparently chose to support the three judges seeking re-election in preference to Turner.

OIL AIDS FIG GROWTH

PORTLAND, Ore.—(INS)—Fred Spoori doesn't know whether its science or Etruscan magic, but he promised a group of fruit growers that if they would only put a drop of olive oil on fruit on their fig trees, the product would be twice as plump, juicier and more luscious. They said the change was noticeable almost immediately.
